

CYBERSITES

These websites do not belong to CAL.
CAL does not endorse these sites, nor guarantee the content.

A brief history of the Apocalypse <http://www.chrisnelson.net/>

We confidently predict that the world will end around morning tea time next Tuesday. You've only got to look at our record to see the truth. The Cybersites team have made 215 doomsday predictions since 1998, and we've been nearly right every time. Of course you've got to be careful, not all prophets of doom are as reputable as the formidable guys and gals of Cybersites. That's where www.chrisnelson.net/ comes in. From an Assyrian clay tablet (circa 2000 BC) discussing the world's coming end, right up to Australia's own modern day 'Little Pebble', you'll see that doomsday predictions have always been with us, and probably always will be.

Rotten Tomatoes www.rottentomatoes.com

Ever seen a film so bad you felt like throwing something at the screen? Let the good people at Rottentomatoes.com hurl some digital fruit on your behalf. Dedicated to providing a range of dependable and objective film reviews that fans can rely on before shelling out their hard-earned cash, the site boasts a database of 87,000 titles and over 200,000 review links. What's more, with the patented 'Tomatometer' review system in your corner you'll never again unwittingly stumble into a shocking film.

Ned Kelly: Australian ironoutlaw www.ironoutlaw.com

If you think that Ned Kelly is nothing more than a dead bushranger, you're sadly mistaken. The legend of the outlaw from Glenrowan has grown over the years to the point where Ned Kelly has become an authentic folk hero to many Australians. Ironoutlaw.com is a wonderful online compendium dedicated to the life of Ned Kelly. This well laid-out resource uses original source material such as letters and eyewitness accounts in offering a detailed commentary on all things 'Kelly'. There's also an informative guide to Ned Kelly exhibitions, books, landmarks and other assorted Nedphernalia.

Alex's Paper Airplanes www.paperairplanes.co.uk/

One of the most overlooked segments of mankind's proud history of aviation has been the humble paper airplane. They're cheap, effective (that is if you want to annoy your boss/lecturer), and relatively easy to make. Paperairplane.co.uk allows you to hone your design abilities to a fine edge. Choose from a range of paper planes and gliders, each one coming with a difficulty ratio and instructions so simple that even the most technically inept individual will have no trouble understanding.

CALendar is published by Copyright Agency Limited (CAL). Opinions expressed in CALendar do not necessarily reflect the views of CAL members.

CALendar provides a summary only of the subject matter covered, without the assumption of a duty of care by CAL. The summary should not be relied on as a substitute for legal or other professional advice.

Letters and editorial contributions should be sent to:

Corporate Relations
Copyright Agency Limited
Level 19, 157 Liverpool St
Sydney NSW 2000
Ph: 02 9394 7600
Fax: 02 9394 7601
Email: pr@copyright.com.au
Website: www.copyright.com.au

This newsletter is prepared in-house by staff of CAL. Each copy costs an average of 63 cents to produce.

Editor: Dianne Speakman

Writer: Mark Hebblewhite
Design, photography and production: Katrina Hughes

Privacy policy: In the course of its operation as a collecting society, personal information is collected by CAL. CAL's privacy policy governs the use, release of and your access to your personal information. This policy is available from CAL or on our website.

© Copyright Agency Limited
ABN 53 001 228 799
Material from CALendar may be reproduced with acknowledgement.